

Faculty in Education, Leadership, Communication, Educational Technology, or Composition

The Core Program at Prince Mohammad Bin Fahd University (PMU), seeks a technology-savvy candidate who can teach a variety of undergraduate courses in the Humanities, Social Sciences, and Communications.

The purpose of this position is to provide high quality teaching that is technology-based. The chosen candidate will teach a general mix of Communications, Humanities, and Leadership courses including Written Communication, Oral Communication, Technical and Corporate Communication, Research, World Civilizations, Psychology, Critical Thinking, Professional Development, Leadership & Teamwork, and Assessment Capstone Courses and other undergraduate or master's courses that are education based.

Duties and Responsibilities:

In addition to the primary teaching responsibilities for the department's academic courses, the responsibilities of the position include academic advising, curriculum development, selecting texts, preparing course syllabi, planning in-class team activities, constructing student assessments, preparing examinations, keeping grade records, supervising laboratory sessions, holding regular office hours and other standard non-teaching duties such as institutional and professional services.

Qualifications:

- A PhD in Education, Leadership, Communication, Educational Technology, or Composition with two years of teaching experience at the college level is preferred
- Masters' degree with at least 18 graduate semester hours in the discipline in which they teach would also be considered.
- Demonstrated ability to instruct in English;
- Demonstrated ability to teach at the university level.